The President's Corner

If you missed our last meeting, then you missed a very good program given by Mike Ford. He talked on "Early Dollars" and it was very interesting and informative.

I know many of you have a interesting program within you that others would like to hear. Don't be bashful, and step forward and schedule a program for a future meeting.

Our presence with a table at the Huntsville Coin Show last weekend was a success. We have 7 new members and we had a lot of interest. I want to thank Richard for overseeing the table since I was out of town all week. Also a hearty thanks goes out to Mike Ford, Verdery Roberson, and John Knadler for their assistance with the table.

"Lincoln's Legacy and Introduction to Coin Collecting" Educational Program Held at Madison Public Library, AL

by
Richard Jozefiak
ANA District Representative for Alabama

On Saturday, May 2, 2009 over twenty-five people attended an educational program on "Lincoln's Legacy and Introduction to Coin Collecting" at the Madison Public Library, Madison, Alabama.

The public program for National Coin Week was sponsored by the Madison Public Library and Madison County Coin Club, Alabama. Donations were generously provided by members of the Madison County Coin Club and Whitman Publishing Company.

The program had a number of displays for the public to see on coins, paper money and exonomia. The presentation was given by the author.

After the presentation the Young Numismatists (YN- young coin collector) received a goody bag of items, including A Guide Book of United States Coins (by R.S. Yeoman) and 2009 Lincoln Cents Folder (donated by Whitman Publishing Company). A door prize drawing for young people was held with a number of proof sets as prizes.

YNs then had the opportunity to work on a project of filling Lincoln Cents folders. They received new 2009 Lincoln cents, and then got to search through bags of Lincoln cents to add to their folder they received.

The two hour program was well received by the public attending, with the Boy Scouts in attendance earning equirements for a merit badge in coin collecting.

The Jersey 1812, 1813, and 1814 Tokens

Part 5: The Remaining Tokens

By Harold Fears

The fifth token is a rare mule token, which could have circulated in Jersey. Like most of the other Jersey copper tokens of this period, they were engraved by Thomas Halliday, a die engraver and token manufacturer of Newhall Street and Hagley Row, Birmingham, England. The obverse is the Prince of Wales's plumes design. This seems to be a favorite design of his, given the fact that he used it on several English tokens of this same period.

This seems to be a favorite design of his, given the fact that he used it on several English tokens of this same period.

The reverse has a female (Commerce) seated on a bale of merchandise holding an olive branch in her right hand and a cornucopia in her left. In the distance, a ship can be seen. Thomas Halliday also worked for the Messrs. Morgan & Company, Die Makers, Medallists and Token Manufacturers. Mr. Henry Morgan advertised in the newspapers of the day and it is quite likely these copper tokens were ordered through and supplied by the Morgan firm, but possibly were "handled" by Thomas Halliday. You can read more about Mr. Morgan entrepreneurship in James O'Donald Mays' book, Tokens of Those Trying Times.

For token number six, the obverse has a profile of George III laureated. The legend reads as "JERSEY BANK TOKEN 1812." The reverse has in the center "ELIAS NEEL JERSEY." The legend is "A BANK OF ENGLAND NOTE FOR 240 TOKENS." Elias Neel, a banker in St. Helier, issued this token. The die sinker of the token was Halliday while the manufacturer was Thomason. Unfortunately, this token has not been seen since 1834. This and the next three tokens are considered to be part of the Jersey bank token sub-series. They are all extremely rare and are hardly ever seen outside of captivity.

on the truncation. The legend is simply "JERSEY BANK 1813." Halliday engraved this die. On the reverse, there is a robed female figure seated to the left on a bale, holding scales and a cornucopia. Typical of these coins, the female represents Justice and Plenty. The legend is "ONE PENNY TOKEN." There is only one known specimen available to collectors.

For token number eight, the obverse has a draped and laureated bust to the right of George III, with no H on truncation. There are seven leaves in the wreath. The legend is "JERSEY BANK 1813." Halliday also engraved this die. The reverse is the same as token number seven.

The obverse of the ninth token also has a draped and laureated bust of George III to the right, with no H on truncation. There are nine leaves in the wreath. The legend reads "JERSEY BANK 1813." This die was also engraved by Halliday. The reverse is also the same as token number seven.

The obverse of the tenth token has a laureated and draped bust to the right of George III, within a wreath of oak. The reverse is similar to the Jersey, Guernsey and Alderney tokens. Once again, the die was engraved by Halliday.

The eleventh token has the druid's head obverse. The reverse has a robed female figure, Britannia, seated to the left on a bale of merchandise, holding in her right hand a sprig of olive, and in her left a palm branch; a shield at the side. The legend is "COMMERCE" and in the exergue is the date 1814. Halliday engraved this die.

The twelfth token has a robed female figure seated to the left on a bale of merchandise, holding an olive branch in her right hand and a cornucopia in her left hand with a ship in the distance. The legend reads "COMMERCE." Halliday engraved this die. The reverse is similar to the first token with the Prince of Wales' feathers emerging from a coronet. The motto on the ribbon is "ICH DIEN" and under the crest is the date 1813. The legend is "TO FACILITATE TRADE."

Once again, the die was engraved by Halliday.

The last token, number 13, for the obverse has a female, Justice, standing holding an olive branch and scales within a wreath of olive and palm branches. In very small print the words "SHEFFIELD PENNY TOKEN" is beneath the female. The reverse is similar to the first token with the Prince of Wales' design.

Next month, a new topic. ■

Our Club purchased some 2009 Silver Eagles to be given away as door prizes. You must be present to win, so plan on attending the next meeting, which is June 22. This is a pot luck and bourse night, so please bring food and coins you want to sell or trade.

See you next month.

Results of the MCCC Membership Table at the Rocket City Coin Show

By Richard Josefiak

The MCCC Membership table at the Rocket City Coin Show was a great success! Seven new members joined MCCC, and two MCCC coffee mugs were sold.

I want to thank the following people for help staffing the MCCC table with me: Verdery Roberson, Mike Ford and John Knadler. We were able to staff the table during most of the coin show. Besides signing new members, we also gave to YNs Lincoln Cents coin folders, 2009 Lincoln cents, and other info.

Also, Charles Cataldo reports that the next Rocket City Coin show date was changed, and it is now scheduled for October 23 & 24, 2009. ■

Why not bring a friend to the next meeting?
